When is the hound crated?

- Not Crated At All

How does the hound handle being crated?

We muzzle when not at home, and use baby gates. He was not interested in the crate. He eats in the kitchen away from or personal greyhound and has had no accidents in the house.

What does the hound enjoy?

Pockets loves pets and snuggles. He will follow you throughout the house. If you tell him to "go lay down", he will lie down on his bed. He prefers a square flat bed to a slumber ball, but will lay on the slumber ball. Pockets loves squeaky toys and something to chew on. He's not interested in the Benebone, but does enjoy his Yak Chew (supervised).

Does the hound have any fears?

Not a fan of fireworks.

What type of temperament does the hound have? (Shy, outgoing, confident, etc.)

Pockets was a bit shy/unsure at first but is becoming more confident the longer we have him. He's really good about letting you know when he has to go potty. He paces/wines and hasn't had an accident. Pockets is very eager to please and wants to be near his humans at all times. He enjoys getting brushed, seems unphased by baths, getting his ears and teeth cleaned, and doesn't start a fuss about getting his toes trimmed and filed up.

How does the hound handle new situations?

Can be on alert in new situations, but very quick to adapt. A little positive reassurance and he's very accepting.
