Understands "No"

Yes

Method of Correction

KayJay is very shy so she responds to NO. I raise my voice and say KayJay no, or just no if depending on if there are multiple dogs around.

Small Dog Safe

Yes

Comments (Small Dog)

Some interaction with small dogs. She was very shy.

Cat Safe

Yes

Comments (Cat Safe)

She lives with two cats now. She chased one of the cats after accidentally scaring the cat the second week we got KayJay but aside from that, she is good with cats.

Good With Young Children

Not Sure

Comments (Young Children)

I do not have children and she is very shy around new kids. Based on her personality, I believe she would be a good family dog. She does not sleep startle and is not aggressive.

Turn Out Routine

I send her outside for a few minutes before calling her in and putting her to bed.

Potty On Lead

Yes

Garbage

Very interested in garbage

Stairs

Yes

Floors

Decent on slippery floors

Counters

She is not a counter surfer but routinely steals things off of my desk

When is the hound crated?

- Bed Time
- Not Crated At All

How does the hound handle being crated?

She does not enjoy being crated. I crate her once and a while for bed, but she knows that the other dogs are not crated so she assumes

What does the hound enjoy?

She enjoys food, attention, affection, play, walks, new experiences (not scary ones), and exploring. She also really likes parked cars.

Does the hound have any fears?

She is afraid of loud noises, new people, and scary new experiences.

What type of temperament does the hound have? (Shy, outgoing, confident, etc.)

She is a shy but more dominant dog. She competes with my personal hound to be leader and first.

How does the hound handle new situations?

She is generally afraid but as she has become more comfortable, she is starting to be more confident.
